SPECT FOUL PLAY DEATH OF YOUTH WHOSE BODY FOUND A THICKET FRIDAY

Dawson Believes James Walker May Have Been Slain

CIDE THEORY NOW IS BEING DOUBTED

ports Made to Locate Negro With Whom He Was Seen

(International News Service)
BIRMINGHAM, Sept. 24.—Investigation of the circumstances surrounding the death of James Walker Jr., 22-year old student at Howard college, whose body was found yesterday in a thicket near the college grounds, will be demanded by Dr. Dawson, president of the institution, announced today.
Walker was suspected by Dr. Dawson who declines to believe the youth committed suicide, as was rumored yesterday. Friends of Walker related this morning that young Walker was seen late last Saturday noon in company with a negro that the pair were walking in the vicinity of Irondale. The body was found yesterday morning in a badly exposed condition.
Walker was first rumored that the youth committed suicide on account of having been caught smoking cigars by his father. Dr. Dawson is inclined to believe the boy was murdered. Efforts are being made to locate the negro with whom young Walker was last seen alive.

anned to Mar Beauty of Girl

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Mrs. Grace, beautiful San Francisco divorcee, shot down her former chum, Mildred Hanan, only after she abandoned a plan to marry her. Mrs. Grace, according to evidence gathered by investigators today, as late as last spring it was learned that Mrs. Grace, while drinking, had expressed to a friend her resolve to murder the features of the divorcee. She wanted to make sure, she said, that Miss Hanan would no longer be active to men. Despite the blood operation, performed yesterday, Miss Hanan continued to live between life and death, the attending physicians conceding her no fighting chance.
Detectives investigating the shooting declared that even though jealousy appears to have been the underlying motive there appears also to be another mystery behind the shooting.

World's Series in the Future Must Suit Judge Landis

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—World's series of the future will have to suit Judge K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, or he can stop the series and award the championship to which ever club he desires. Copies of the new book of rules, defining the authority of the commissioner, have been distributed and their contents became known today.
Under a specific rule the commissioner has the right, whenever he deems fit, to terminate the world's series and to declare one of the contending clubs the winner, regardless of previous performances. The new rules also prohibit members of pennant winning teams in either league from engaging in barnstorming tours.

ONLY 3 MURDERS FIXED ON GROSSMAN

(International News Service)
BERLIN, Sept. 24.—Although Carl Grossman, modern "Bluebeard" and super-criminal, is believed to have killed from 20 to 30 women, the officials of the prosecuting attorney's staff believed today they could not fix more than three murders upon him and possibly six at the most. Grossman was turned over to the prosecuting attorney by the police yesterday. The prisoner, who appears to be a degenerate of the saddest type is the most amazing criminal ever seen in this country.
The accused, a former butcher, is dirty and his clothing is ragged and filthy. His hair and beard are unkempt. It has been established that Grossman sold human flesh from his victims in the form of sausage and veal. Grossman denies the accusation. However he was forced to admit he had killed three women and the authorities are trying to fix the blame for numbers of others upon him. Parts of the corpses were assembled in the morgue and Grossman was taken to look upon them. He did so calmly and coolly.
When he was forced to admit killing three women, the prisoner pleaded justification. "They either stole from me or were unfaithful to me," said the accused man.

SECOND COMING OF CHRIST SUBJECT OF EVANGELIST JONES TO LARGE AUDIENCE

Many Organizations' Members Are Special Guests at the Tabernacle

HAS LITTLE SYMPATHY FOR FANATICAL CREEDS

Idle Talk to Speak of Exact Time of Return, Speaker Says

The last of the night meetings of the Bob Jones revival, excepting the final meeting Sunday night, was held last night and attended by an overflow crowd. The largest number of social, religious and fraternal societies to attend the Tabernacle meetings were present last night. There were the Daughters of the American Revolution, the United Daughters of the Confederacy, Confederate veterans (This delegation was given an ovation when they stood); Service men from the world war; All the Women's Clubs of the Twin Cities; the Woodmen of the World, and the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. This body of women sang "We will win a million members by 1924". The ex-service men asked for, and the whole congregation sang "The Little Brown Church in the Dale".

Miss Mary Penick and Mrs. Jeffers sang as a duet "The old Rugged Cross" and Miss Florence Peebles sang "He is calling thee". In behalf of the finance committee B. L. Malone, in a brief address of appreciation for the efforts of Bob Jones, had the pledge envelopes for Mr. Jones delivered to the congregation, with direction for their return Sunday. Prior to the Evangelist's sermon, which was on the "Second Coming of Christ", Loren Jones sang, with Mrs. Loren Jones at the piano, "Christ Returneth".

Bases his sermon on scripture texts
In opening his sermon Mr. Jones stated a number of well known scripture texts bearing on the judgment and the Second Coming of Christ. Those who sought to fix the exact date of Christ's return, got little encouragement. He also discouraged "Fanaticism; as regards the Second Coming of Christ". He said that monomaniacs, were like persons who continually went to the piano, but could strike only one note, and as people got very tired of such music, as also they became weary of fanatical teachings. "A Christian should sweep the whole key-board of truth," declared the speaker.

As to the teaching evidently believed by Mr. Jones, we are to look for Christ's coming any time—but that not even the angels in heaven know the exact day or the hour. He believes that those living and those who passed from life in Christ will be caught up into the air with Him, and be taken to glory by Him. Later—Christ is to come to judge those still living in sin, and to raise those who died in sin, in order to judge them also according to the deeds done in the body. The duration of time necessary for these things, according to the speaker, was not known.

Our Citizenship in Heaven

The speaker stressed the teaching that our citizenship was not on earth, but in heaven. He said it was idle to think of having "a continuing city" on earth, as all mankind were pilgrims and all Christian believers strangers in a sense to the things of this present world. The hope was held out that our bodies of corruption should be raised up in corruption and that they would be fashioned like unto "His own glorious body". It was declared that the curse of sin extended to the entire creation, as was evidenced by the thorns, weeds, the withering winds, and the sickly bodies of all the animal creation, including mankind.

Bodily coming insisted upon
The Evangelist insisted that not just a spiritual coming, but a bodily appearance was what is to be expected, as Christ ascended in bodily form, so would He come again, just as the Angel prophesied at the time He was received from above. The speaker rejoiced in the belief that he would see Jesus, and touch His hands just as if He had been living with Him, when Jesus walked on the earth 2000 years ago.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT TO MAKE MANAGER MISS RAPPE TALK PLANNED BY STATE

Sensational Story Told by Sem-nacher to Grand Jury is Sought

MARKED RELUCTANCE TO TESTIFY SHOWN

Case Probably Will Occupy the Greater Part of Next Week

(International News Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—The state planned to make another attempt today to wrest from the lips of Al Semnacher, manager of Virginia Rappe, for whose murder Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle stands charged, the sensational story which Semnacher told a Los Angeles grand jury earlier in the week, regarding alleged admissions of Arbuckle the morning after the gay party at which the state claimed she received the injuries which caused the death of the film actress.

Throughout three hours of grilling yesterday afternoon, Semnacher parried all efforts to bring this out and in additional materially softened testimony he had given at session of the grand jury and the coroner's inquest.

So marked was his reluctance to give material testimony that he was finally ruled a hostile witness in order to permit the state to proceed with questioning under rules of cross examination, rather than the more refined process of direct examination. Confronted with his answers to questions before the coroner's inquest, Semnacher expressed the belief that the stenographer had misquoted him. It was only after two hours of questioning that the District Attorney brought forth from Semnacher, the story of the finding of Miss Rappe in Arbuckle's rooms. When this story came out adjournment was taken until this morning when the state announced they would continue Semnacher's question for probably an hour and a half.

The case is expected to be continued then until next week with the prospect the hearing will require the greater part of the week at the present rate of speed.

Revenue Laws Up for Decision Soon

(Montgomery Bureau, Albany-Decatur Daily)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 24.—Demurrers interposed by the attorney-general to the amended petition of W. C. Braswell, tax payer of Coffee county, who seeks to force the state tax commission to order a general revaluation of property in the state, were overruled by Judge Walter B. Jones of the circuit court today. This means that the issue as to whether or not section 84 of the revenue act of 1919 will go to the supreme court on appeal soon.

The decision of the lower court on demurrers had been expected as the amended petition followed the original petition except in one small matter and the demurrers of the state to the original petition were overruled except regarding the one section. The amended petition corrected the petition in line with the ruling of the court.

Judge Jones' decision on the demurrer held that section 84 which provides for a semi-annual assessment of property is unconstitutional and that all property in the state, under the constitution, must be assessed annually for taxation.

NATIONS NOT READY TO FORSAKE POISON GASES IN WARFARE

(International News Service)
BERLIN, Sept. 24.—No nation is ready to abandon poison gas as a war weapon, according to an exclusive statement today from Prof. Fritz Haber, inventor of the Oppau process and developer of poison gas used in the world war.

"No nation will renounce the use of deadly gas in warfare because the possibilities of further mechanical developments for making slaughter on a wholesale plan are almost exhausted, while there are still many new chemical possibilities for creating widespread death. Had the German general staff prepared a gas attack on a very large scale instead of experimenting as at Ypres, Germany would have won the war. As it was the allies, being forewarned of poison gas possibilities, were enabled to take counter measures. A new weapon always wins out in war if it has merit. When the world war closed 27 per cent of all German munitions were poison gas munitions. On the whole I do not think the use of poison gas to be any more cruel than any other weapon."

WELL DONE FOR THE AMERICAN LEGION IN NEW JERSEY

In ruling against any set of organizations that use imperial names and titles to excess and who make threats, the American Legion of New Jersey, does well; and its action is in keeping with the first declarations of the Revolutionary fathers, and all the best traditions of our nation's past history. The state convention voiced its sentiments in a set of resolutions, which are as follows:

Resolved, That this convention go on record as being opposed to any organization which uses the terms of imperial nomenclature in designating its officers, tries to establish a government apart from the existing and competent federal and state governments and preaches tenets in contradiction to the expressed and practiced principles of the constitution of the United States.

Truly Americanism is not a thing of class, ancestry, creed, or occupation. The writers of the resolution in additional paragraphs refer to their association in battle with all classes and conditions of men, and say that in every instance such men fought and died for a common country and a common cause.

The fact that a man is born in a certain state of the Republic makes him a legal resident of the United States; but birth does not make him a true American. He must see to that himself, regardless of his birth place or parentage. American born people who evaded the draft by migrating to other countries are very poor Americans in comparison to the simon pure article although such worthy's parents might have been born in unfortunate and beat Germany. It is a good thing that the American Legion members are determined to stand by all Americans, regardless of their forebearers or their creeds. It is good for the Legion's future usefulness and for the peace and tranquility of our great nation.

SEPTEMBER 26TH

Three years ago, the gray, mist-hung morning of September 26th heard the Allied guns all firing at once from Alsace to the sea and saw several hundred thousand young Americans crouched for a spring near Vedun. Ahead of them lay the kind of dogged, cheerless fighting in cold muck of which, until then, they had only read. For all they knew, there would be another unbroken year of it, but within six weeks, they were battering at the gates of Sedan and the enemy had thrown up his hands.

While the fight was on there was much cursing and recrimination. Were the men in the forest fighting their best? They'd say they were. And did. But were those at their left helping as they should? Who was showing the real stuff that had once stormed Missionary Ridge? Was it the New Yorkers or was it the ranger men from the Pacific slope? Who took Montfaucon? Who really captured Grand-Pre? Who made possible the smash that came on November 1st? Such inter-divisional debates warmed a thousand and one winter billets when the guns had ceased firing, and even now the battlefield is dotted with stones marking the spot where this division started, where that division stopped.

Yet already the lines are blurring a little. Even the one separating the gun-toting infantry from the troops that pushed behind them in growing faint. Even we of 1921 are too far away for our eyes quite to make out the divisional insignia. History, with still greater perspective, may have a good deal to say as to the necessity of the battle's having been fought at all and as to the wisdom of the elders in its direction. But of the fight itself it will see only that the undistinguished and indistinguishable youth of America met an ugly task with an ancient courage. And history will be right.—American Legion Weekly.

The most hopeful indication that peace will come between England and Ireland is that their chief writers say they are keeping the door open for it.

Editor Munsey of the New York Herald, made fun of the League of Nations in season and out of season. Now the league is to be asked to settle a business deal in favor of Mr. Munsey. Did he try to bite the hand that he now hopes will feed him?

TNT is unpronounceable, but its associations and what it can do are understood.

It is either scrap the navies or scrap with them.

A TRAIN OF THOUGHTS FOR SABBATH AND OTHER DAYS

By J. E. Blair

As children we thought correctly, but usually we had too little information. For example—there was a boy, who saw red ant hills and believed that the ants made the mounds for the mound's sake. He did not realize that the mound was only waste material taken out as the ant-home was being drilled. The same boy believed for years, that the litter of material in front of it, was really and truly "the house that Jack built." And the boy was right from his point of view. For the houses (play houses) he had built looked like the accumulation of left-over boards, saw-horses, piles of brick, and empty barrels that lay in front of the marvelous structure, said to have been built by Jack. (To digress: Hands up for all who believe Jack, as small as he was, really built a real house?) The finished structure in sight, just back of "his house that Jack built," only confirmed the boy in his belief that the words in the story book: "This is the house that Jack built" referred to what looked to him like a play house. The boy thought Jack lived with his folks in the sure enough house, and came out to build play houses just as he was in the habit of doing. Morals: Those who do not like morals, are urged to read on and learn to like them. Did you once think like a child, but do now say with Saint Paul: "When I was a child I thought as a child, I understood as a child, I spake as a child, but when I became a man I put away childish things." Children feel only the hurt of the Dentist's drill as it goes down. The child sees only the blood, as the boy in the story saw only the red mound of the ants. The grown person grins and bears the punishment of the Dentist, his wise head thinking of the removed ache, when once the abcess at the root of the tooth is gone.

In school the childish people get mad and stiffen their necks, when often reproved. In the work world, the childish slight their work rather than submit to the discipline necessary to become skilled mechanics.

In religious matters the childish make a lot of excuses rather than follow the directions of the great Physician. When we put away childish things, we are ready to believe, that the horse will take the whip, without breaking into a gallop, is apt to win the trotting race. When we put away childish things we are willing "to spend and be spent." When we are glad to suffer with Christ, in order that He may reign and we with Him.

The same boy referred to in the outset, when he used to hear of people "getting married and going off to house-keeping," thought, that all such people had to do, was for the woman to keep house, and the man to carry in wood to cook the food. He knew nothing of the great unexplored world of struggle. He did not realize, that carrying in wood (that was all he had ever done of a useful character) was a very, very small part of the job of "keeping house." Getting away from childish thoughts is hard to do. It requires the same kind of resolution that Saint Paul had to escape childishness as an individual, is hard put to do away with childish thoughts and ways in a "collective sense" is even harder.

Industrial organizations both of labor and capital play at the job—if they do not do worse—of abolishing poverty and bringing in democracy in industry. When labor and capital put away childish thoughts, they will realize that their job is to clothe the naked and feed the hungry of all the children of men—not of just their own children and those of their close friends.

When the church will put away childish things, its members can more truly say: "We are not divided, all one body we." When childishness goes, the churches will not be satisfied just to keep "denominational house," but will join in one mighty army, despite intellectual differences and contend against the forces of evil until the battle against wrong is won; until the Kingdom's of this world shall become the Kingdoms of the Prince of Peace.

Maxwell Economy
Nation Wide

Reports from widely separated points of good Maxwell gasoline records.

That the good Maxwell gives remarkable economy performance in all parts of the country is indicated by recent reports received at the factory.

One report covered a tour in Pennsylvania and New York states while the other was a performance in California.

In the first, Mr. Otis Dockstader, an architect in Elmira, N. Y., started on August 2 for a trip of several weeks duration.

He kept careful records up to August 29 and found that he had used 40 gallons of gasoline for a mileage of 1,055, or 26.4 miles per gallon.

Out in Molesto, H. E. Jackson, a Maxwell salesman for the James L. Robertson Company, took two newspaper men for a Maxwell demonstration.

Slightly more than 300 miles were covered, much of it over rough, hilly country, and the car, which was a touring car taken from stock, showed an average of 27 miles to the gallon.

On this same trip Mr. Jackson negotiated two hills around Modesto which have given motorists trouble for years.—Adv.

It Will Grow.

Democracy can never be extended by force, as you would find a net over a flock of birds; but give it a chance and it will grow, as a tree grows, by sending down its roots into the heart of humanity and lifting its top toward the light and spreading its arms wider and wider until all the persecuted flocks of heaven find refuge beneath its protecting shade.—Henry Van Dyke.

GAS MAN

The luxuries of yesterday have become the necessities of today. We have only to think of gas, telephones, electric lights and street cars to appreciate this, and to wonder how people every lived without them.

Thanks to our public utilities, the most efficient form of co-operative business, these services have become commonplace things of daily life. Gas service, for instance, is at our command so easily that we accept and use it as a matter of course, without a thought of how it got there. Yet it has not simply "happened," or, like Topsy "just grewed."

The story of its origin, growth and place in the life of the nation is romance made reality. It shows the result of labor, investment and directing genius, all uniting to render a service so indispensable as to deserve the good-will of every community fortunate enough to obtain it.

Moulton News

MOULTON, Sept. 24. — Special — Belated information as to the result of the State examination for teachers held in Moulton, in July, is to the effect that out of twenty-five or more applicants for license to teach in the state only six were successful.

The names just received are those of Ernest Graham, Geo. Anderson Sneed, Joseph H. Leonard Weatherwax and Lena Estelle Young for second grade certificates and Mrs. Ida Anderson and Mrs. Paul Aldridge for third grade license. However, the number is not a correct indication as to the Lawrence county teachers who have qualified during the summer as thirty or more attended the State Normal at Florence and secured or renewed their certificates and many of that number are now there pursuing their course of study to better quality themselves before the opening of schools the last of October.

The Acting Forest Supervisor located at Moulton for the Alabama National Forest is sending out letters to those living within the boundaries of the reservation asking co-operation be given the government in securing all or part of the hundreds of acres still owned by private individuals within this domain since practically all of the land thus desired is wholly or in part unsuited for agricultural purposes. A preliminary survey along Brushy Creek and Sipsey river through Winston county develops the fact the greater part of the territory traversed by these streams is fitted best for forest preservation and if the lands can be purchased at present market value the area of the reservation will be greatly increased above the 198,000 acres already comprised within its boundaries. Among the questions asked the present owners of the land desired are how much is owned, number of acres cleared and under cultivation, distance to nearest school and nearest church, and as to telephone connections.

After an interval of about two months Moulton is again beginning to have the benefit of electric lights. Some time ago the Moulton Walter works leased their plant to the Burk Auto Company which has installed the engines, etc., in their garage and begun to furnish light to the homes and churches.

More cotton is being ginned and it is being more rapidly sold in and around Moulton thus far in the season than has been at any time within the past few years up to the first of October. The better prices prevailing in spite of the low crop estimate because of the weevil are having a wholesome effect on the business conditions as shown both in the banks and the stores locally and throughout the county. Good showers are making the fields ready for fall planting too yet not heavy enough to do any special damage to the cotton crop. It is said that the corn crop is going to be one of the best ever produced in Lawrence county.

L. B. Cropper, cashier of the Citizens' Bank, is spending a few days with his mother at his old home in Owenton, Kentucky.

The Methodist revival is having excellent attendance at both day and night services this week. The pastor, is ably assisted by Dr. Morris.

W. A. Moles, the popular tax man, has been confined to his room a day or so this week with malaria. His numerous friends trust he will be fully recovered soon.

Dublin, Va.—Miss Mary Alice Hughtett residing on Route 2, near here, recently told a visitor of her interesting experience with Cardui. Miss Hughtett said: "I had been suffering for some time with painful periods, didn't feel like going. Would just drag around, and couldn't rest to do any good. I would suffer once a month with my back, sides and head. My limbs would ache and I didn't know what to do, but I knew I must do something, for I didn't get well by letting it run on."

"My mother is a believer in Cardui, for she saw what it did for others as well as herself, so she began giving it to me."

"It wasn't long before I saw a change. It was just what I needed. It regulated me. I began to eat and sleep, and the pain stopped."

"Cardui is without doubt the best female tonic made, and I am glad I can recommend it to others."

If suffering with symptoms such as Miss Hughtett mentions, or other ailments peculiar to women, why not begin Cardui at once? Its merit is well established by successful use for more than 40 years.
